

About the Seminar

Fire safety regulations and practices have been evolving over the years culminating in the implementation of the Certificate of Completion and Compliance (CCC) to be issued by the Principal Submitting Person. It is now the responsibility of the professional as the Submitting Person to ensure that the fire safety design complies with the latest regulations, standards and practices. This seminar aims to update and refresh knowledge for all stakeholders to bring them up to speed. The seminar will look into the latest design and practices in Fire safety engineering as detailed in the program.

The topics are targeted at all those involved with fire safety design including Approving Agencies, Architects, M&E Consultants, Developers, Contractors and Building Owners. This seminar will provide the guidelines on latest design practices and submission requirements that will help reduce incidences of rejection and non-compliance with Bomba requirements.
